Their future is at your fingertips

Yes, their future and yours belong to you! What will you make of your chances? Will you succeed and make a better world for everyone, or will you lean back and take life easy? Take advantage of your opportunities now. Support the team for better living.

Your chances are limited only by your abilities and your determination to develop and use them.

Before you really step out into life, you must organize your thoughts. Use some care in planning your future but leave room for unforeseen opportunities and obstacles that may appear. Whatever you do, do it well. Remember the future is only what you make it.

The difference is in the distance

Each morning and evening the familiar orange school busses can be seen criss-crossing Austin's surrounding countryside where they receive and discharge their cargoes of noise, books, and knowledge.

Much the same scene takes place within the city's boundaries each school day too, although many find the energy to walk the few or many blocks to their local doorstep of learning.

From experience comes leadership

During the last year, the United States experienced a national election. The people turned out in record numbers at the polls and overwhelmingly elected Dwight D. Eisenhower the President for the next four years.

In pre-election days, 80,000 people came out to see and hear Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson when they attended the fall festivities at Plowville. A large number of Austin residents were on hand for the speeches.

Also in a major spotlight was Gordy Goick, Austinian photographer, who was elected president of the Minnesota State Press Association for the year 1953.

Classes take basic place in school day

Although taking a back seat in publicity when compared with sports and other extra-curricular activities, classes are the main functions of the school proper. Behind each closed door is a world within a world where the real purpose of our public school system is carried out. Classes and students alike keep on moving and covering new fields of learning.

From the moment an individual enters his first classroom to the instant he leaves his last one, a remarkable transition takes place. Each person is delivered from his haphazard youngster days to a time of facing life with a mature outlook.

Classes

We reminisce as all seniors do

How busy can a person be? The many events that the seniors enjoyed this year proved the ever-ringing statement "'53 is the best year" to be true. As in every year, work, sports, mixers, and parties combined with an unlimited amount of homework made the seniors the busiest people in the school. For the last time he has registered, decorated the homecoming floats, prepared for the homecoming festivities, and traded pictures.

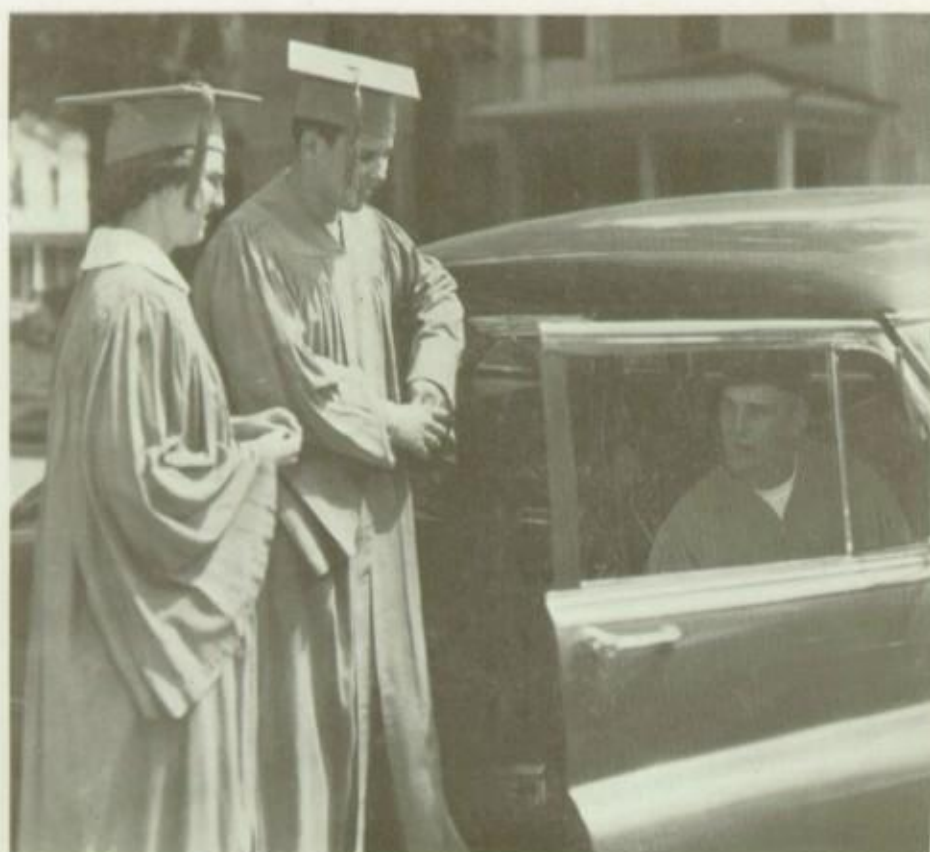

The excitement of graduation is dulled by the sad thought of leaving school. While the freshmen are anticipating the time when they will graduate, the seniors are wishing that they could begin again. Every student has his own thoughts as he recalls experiences he has had in the past twelve years.

Finally, the years are finished with the activities of Senior Skip Day. Then marching to the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" at Baccalaureate and Commencement, and dancing at the prom for the last time, makes him realize that another phase of life has ended. Another class now moves out to be absorbed into the surrounding world.

T.B. or not T.B.

With a smiling face, Don Knutson watches while Doctor Fisch gives him his Mantoux test. The background scenery did not help to enliven the atmosphere as the seniors dubiously lined up to be jabbed with the needle. It was apparent that Mr. T. B. Germ had not entered the senior class of A. H. S. because all seniors remained in school although some of them thought they would never be the same.

Heels star at tea

"Ooh! just look . . . four inches high," says Jerry Clement as he measures the heel of Nancy Svejkovsky's shoe. Ted Colescott and Ken Pedersen are very curious as they give Sandra Hess and Sharon Kime the "once over". The big event for the gals was the Friendship Club's Mother and Daughter Tea, which is an annual event. Although the girls were given a bad time, they still say it was a worthwhile adventure.

Deck the halls

The Christmas Spirit affected everyone locally and seniors are no exception. An all-girl organization, the Senior Friendship Club, decorates a pair of trees annually, but Bob Hastings and Bill Pribble thought they would get a little of the glory this year. The boys, "honorary" members of SFC, contribute worthwhile remarks.

Towing free, too

One of the famous landmarks of the class of '53 is "the green job", driven by our own Theodore Cole-scott. As Nancy Bateman, Nancy Svejkovsky, Don Ryks, Ken Pedersen, Barb Lewis and Karen Grier will agree, this truck is conveniently used as a taxi and an all-purpose school bus. Since only the cab has seats and standing is rather difficult, the next most comfortable place is the floor.

Dough makes dough

"Ummm, that smells good," says Frank Burton as he takes the bread out of the oven. Baking bread isn't all he does in his working hours, though, as he also has to wash pans, fill flour bins, and keep the bakery clean. Along with these tasks he has proved to be an expert taster as he samples the freshly baked goodies. Frank is just one of many seniors who have part time jobs, and baking is one of the many fields involved.

Tan of 0 = ?

Did you look into or were you ever in a trig class of Mrs. Blanche Black? The most predominant characteristic is the formal way the class is run and the students act. It is apparent from the faces of Tom Togas, Don Beaver, Duane Youngdahl, and Bill Rugg that trig needs deep concentration. There are those people who are of the opinion that they have trig mastered, but a timely test by Mrs. Black brings them to their senses again.

Lower classes lead enrollment total

Oops! There goes the card catalog. Besides tipping furniture and files over, students DO study. The library is the center of the intellect when research papers are assigned in the C.P. English classes.

Magazines, books, pamphlets and the new paperback books are available in a wide subject range.

Since the students' time is limited in the library, most of them use their time wisely.

Small fry varies daily activity

Eighth grade music classes meet one hour each week. During this hour, they prepare themselves for chorus and learn more about music, composers and artists.

Throughout the year, the individuals of Junior High Science Club work on projects and play host to guest speakers. Extra side-lights are the visits to the state meeting in May and a science fair in April.

Junior officers enjoy Sentinel

Among the various duties of the junior officers are the choosing of class rings and the planning of the junior-senior prom. Although there is work to do, one can be certain that these "big wheels" enjoy many pleasures, such as reading the Sentinel. Included in the Big Four are president Bob Hoff, veep Doris Nelson, secretary Janice Plager, and treasurer Dale Bartley.

Juniors prepare for leading roles

Who's your prom date? Each year the juniors undertake the planning of this big event. Headed by the class officers, various committees choose the band, programs and send out invitations.

Proof of the rolls is in the eating

Exclamations of "what smells so good?" can be heard throughout the halls when the home ec classes are baking. Bread is one of the more common recipes used by the girls and they vary the process by molding rolls and biscuits into different sizes and shapes. Fancy Christmas cookies, salads, and meat cookery are also included in the advanced courses.

Soph leaders have life of ease

Although the sophomore officers have no specific job to do, they find a great deal of time to chat and plan parties and recreation of their own. The officers this year are president Dave Ploof, vice president Sharon Hall, secretary Nancy Orcutt and treasurer Tom Holgate. Their ambition: to become juniors.

“Chicken wings” take the cake

“Half Nelsons” and “chicken wings” are frequently heard expressions during the sixth hour when the boys wrestle in the practice rooms. Wrestling is the only sport so timed that the rural boys may also participate. Experience is a definite factor; therefore, those who have expectations of winning state titles, can be found practicing in their free time.

Girls gym class forms pyramid

One, two, three, and four! Broken backs may result from this stunt but girls in gym classes have no such worries. Besides building pyramids, the classes participate in volley ball, relays, and the "ever torturing" calisthenics. Nevertheless, these girls know good health will be the reward of their efforts.

Freshmen outgrow that curfew age

The word freshman brings to mind the students who walk around with their heads held high, for now they are the royalty of the junior high. The opportunity of going to school mixers and parties has now been thrust upon these hearty souls. Parents also have given way to the Frosh by allowing later curfews and more privileges.

Ninth graders have square dance

Each year a freshman class party is held. The idea of the party is to acquaint the new and old students of the school. This year a talent show was presented after which refreshments were served and games and square dances were held. To the surprise of many students, even the boys participated in the dancing.

Frosh revise four-year plan cards

Freshmen find their class counselor very helpful in deciding what subjects to take the following three years. Future jobs and professions necessitate particular study backgrounds, and through careful planning, each student can set a suitable schedule for himself. Roger Knutson, Carolyn Strand, Bob Rugg, and Peggy McLaughlin are being advised by Miss Edna Martini, counselor.

Minus car, float appears on foot

By following the red thread of the school year activities back to Homecoming, one can remember the ink spattered signs, attics in turmoil, last minute costumes and "Mom's" help. Since the eighth grade students are not old enough to drive, their floats often consist of costumed people on foot.

Boys create model boats

Bandaged fingers and blood-stained floors in the shop classes are not results of "mutiny", but the toiling of the seventh grade boys. Aside from the fact that fingers do get cut, but not badly, boys have found the shop classes helpful in the deciding of a vocation and hobby.

Learning to read well is an art

Tutoring can best describe the type of work being done in Miss Eleanor Carlson's literature classes. With the help of a classroom library, students learn to read slowly and concentrate on factual material. Word wheels are used to help in the pronunciation of words. Each student is assigned work to suit his ability, and as he progresses, harder work is given him.

New assistant principal joins staff

Superintendent L. S. Harbo

Assistant Principal G. H. Darling

Assistant Principal D. L. Warren

Principal R. M. Wescott

Short noon hour brings changes

A second assistant principal, Glen H. Darling, joined Austin's expanding school ranks in the senior high school. Doron L. Warren moved his offices one flight up and is specializing in junior high school work.

At the helm as counselor to all students is Ray M. Wescott, principal. Mr. Wescott is chief adviser on class scheduling. This year he has been kept busy with his pet project, the noon hour schedule. A desire to protect the individual student and citizen against increasing safety hazards has been the most important single consideration in adopting this program.

Superintendent L. S. Harbo's duties are to manage the grade schools, high school, and junior college, and select the faculty.

Board members set service record

Voters of Austin have shown complete satisfaction in their choice of school board members, as this has been the tenth consecutive year each member has served on the board. Two members have contributed approximately seventeen years of service, apiece.

The school board has the responsibility of setting up a budget for the operation and repair of the schools and they are also faced with the matters of construction and enlargements of the school.

Construction has already gotten under way for the new vocational school to be headed by Mr. Floyd Lueben. The school is to be located across the street from the high school on Kenwood Avenue. To prevent safety hazards, an underground tunnel will be constructed beneath the street from the high school to the vocational building.

Primary use of this school will be for vocational subjects such as carpentry, beauty culture, and auto mechanics.

Teachers enjoy social life, too

Two new members on Austin High School's faculty this year were Miss Jeanne Dudley and Mrs. Jean M. Lommen. Serving once a year on a tea committee is the passport for attending every monthly tea.

Faculty members have many extra curricular assignments to keep themselves busy.

Austin's staff is never-tiring as teachers serve as chaperones at school mixers and the prom. They sell tickets at social functions such as football games, basketball games, plays, and mixers, and still many find time to serve as club advisers and athletic team coaches.

Did you know that French high school girls are not allowed to wear lipstick to school, and they are required to wear a simple, white uniform? These were just a few of the interesting facts learned from the foreign students who visited Austin High School.

A comment heard often from the foreign students was, "Such a large school with so many opportunities for the students." Many of the visitors were impressed by the new vocational subjects offered here. From their talks, Austin students learned a deeper appreciation for their country.

Spanish adviser brews chili

"Care for some chili con carne?" asks Mrs. Evelyn Galbraith, Spanish Club adviser. Mrs. Galbraith, like many other teachers who use some spare time acting as club advisers, finds that her time is well spent.

By acting as an adviser the teacher receives an opportunity to meet the students in a more informal manner and is able to understand them better.

It isn't always play, and no work. At times, faculty sponsors find themselves with the job of planning the club meetings, or even making the lunch.

Teen age times add spice and variety

No nymph guards the lives of Austin's teenagers. Like anyone else, individuals create their own kinds and harbors of fun. Games, mixers, formals, sleighrides, and innumerable parties of every nature add spice and variety to the after-school hours of the great majority.

School life has to be made interesting, but when Austin Highers get together, evenings just are interesting. Whether it's all boys, all girls, or straight dates, everyone has fun. Don't get the impression that all is play with no work in Austin. Austinites have both.

Year upon year, new friends are made, new "steadies" begin and end, and old friendships are renewed. No one can live by himself throughout the school year and no one wants to.

Royalty relaxes as day ends

Following the coronation and amid cheers of congratulation, the queen and her attendants reigned over a spectacular Homecoming parade. Napkins, crepe paper, and many hours of work brought forth a variety of beautiful, as well as humorous, floats.

Still later, a festive crowd, triumphant after a victory over Mankato, streamed into a gayly decorated cafeteria to dance to the music of Henry Charles. Watching over Queen Marlene and her loyal subjects was the silhouette of a football player leaping from a football of white napkins. Participating seniors felt that the final homecoming celebration for the class of '53 came to an end all too swiftly at the stroke of midnight.

Queen reigns after spritely pepfest

One moonlight night at the end of September, the students of Austin High School were out at the Athletic Field cheering their team on to victory. This was a special occasion—Homecoming—and Austin's football team was experiencing a long winning streak, which came to a close a few weeks later.

Homecoming 1953 started off with a bang as the snake dance wound from the high school to the Athletic Field. The pep fest and bonfire ended the evening.

The following afternoon, the auditorium stage was set for the coronation of the 1953 queen. Not a sound could be heard except the organ music as pretty Marlene Nordland, wearing a scarlet robe over her glittering white formal, was escorted to her throne by Dick Anderson, President of the Student Council. Queen Marlene and her equally attractive attendants, Jean Roberts, Darlene Cunningham, Doris Blowers, and Ardyth Arens, were presented with bouquets of giant yellow chrysanthemums.

A hilarious skit was presented by the members of GAA. The planetarian cheerleaders, Sondra Christianson, Virginia Shutt, and Nancy Zein did a super job in their costumes that were "out of this world."

School provides part-time employment

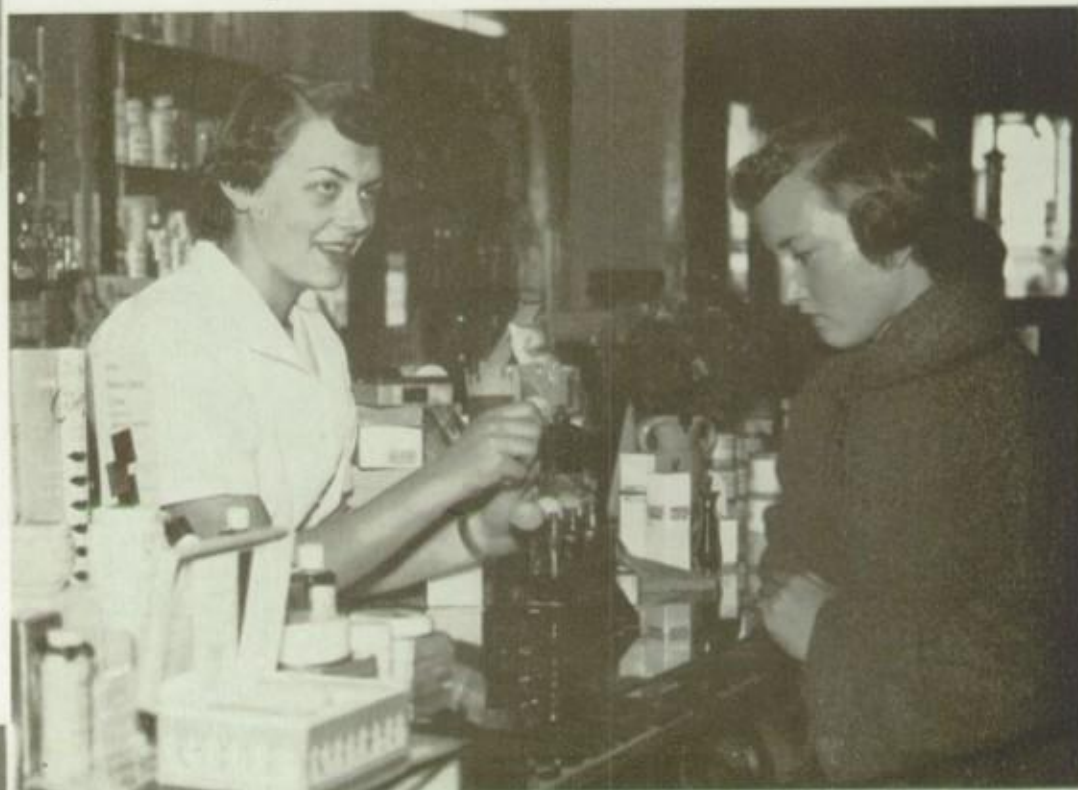

Learning how to sell a product is only one phase taught in Central's merchandising class. Those interested in managing a store of their own some day acquire the fundamentals needed.

Whatever kind of a store you wish to own, merchandising teaches the various techniques in attractive window displays and also arrangement of display inside the store. Learning how to get along with the customer is an important part of store management that is taught.

Students in the course have part-time jobs and put their learning to good use.

Are you interested in a form—a legal form that is?? Then the shorthand-secretarial training class will be of great advantage to you.

Learning to operate various business machines, including the mimeograph and the acid duplicator, is one objective of the course. The girls also learn to take dictation and write business letters.

Secretarial training is a two-hour course. The first hour consists mainly of taking letters in shorthand with the second hour devoted to transcribing. Girls acquire knowledge a would-be-secretary must know.

Juniors and seniors plan for future

Numerous advantages are offered to Austin High students and included in them are the senior math and comptometry courses. Austinian sales boomed this year as an all-out advertising campaign went on. Home-rooms handled the sales once more. Those not so fortunate with "ready cash" had an opportunity to pay at a later date if they contacted staff members. This boosted subscription to a new high of 1900.

Early Thanksgiving morning, after struggling through snow drifts and over icy roads, thirteen Austinian staff members and Miss Lillias Davis were finally on their way to attend the National Press Convention in Chicago.

"Are you going to the mixer, tonight?" After the excitement and worry of a football or basketball game, the social life of a mixer is most relaxing.

The Homecoming Mixer, sponsored by GAA, featured a big football fashioned from thousands of white paper napkins. From the center of the football the black figure of a football player leaped at the dancers. Silhouettes of players were decorations.

"Winter Wonderland" was the theme for a holiday mixer put on by the Dirk and Bauble Club. Christmas trees, snow flakes, bells, and blue lights gave a realistic atmosphere to the whole setting. A mammoth wreath with a snack bar nestled in the middle was the center of attraction.

The last big mixer of the year came during WPA week. Senior Friendship Club chose as its theme "Hearts Are High Tonight." Cupids, hearts, and "silly" love letters decked all the cafeteria walls. The teachers' dining room was transformed into "Cupid's Corner" where dancers could refresh themselves with cold bottles of pop.

Hours of hard work came down in a hurry as souvenir hunters made "quick work" of the decorations at the close of the evening.

Field Day feud ends with '52 activities

"The old world changeth, giving place to the new," quoth Shakespeare, and Austin students experienced one of these changes with the abolishing this year of Field Day, long a traditional spring event for the upper classes.

Constantly increasing numbers of students and the safety factors involved were given by the Board of Education as fundamental reasons for eliminating the activity.

Last year's Field Day was staged in a drizzling all-day rain as students yelled their lungs dry cheering on teammates in volleyball, rooster fights, three-legged races, and numerous other events of the day.

Highlight of the day was the tug of war. Fire department members held the big hose on the rope as the '52 victor dragged its sopping '53 foe through mud and more water. Undaunted losers agreed, "You can't beat '53."

Ideal party-goers exchange plans

Long before May 27, strange activities were taking place around Austin High. Girls were huddled together, busily discussing the styles of the new formals. The boys were equally busy deciding whether to wear the old brown suit, or buy a new dark blue one. Also, there were those beautiful (but costly) corsages to order. It was, you see, time for the Junior-Senior Prom, and all else was forgotten in the anxious anticipation of the annual spring affair.

Pre-proming for the biggest night

Two busy people were Solveig Strand and Neil Ludvigson. Neil called to ask the all-important question "Will you go?" After satisfactorily answering, Solveig began to make her preparations, aided by her little sister Greta, who found Solveig's white netting more than she could resist. With both Solveig and Neil struggling to get Neil's boutonniere on, they were finally ready to leave. "Mother, don't leave a light burning. I'll be late tonight!"

Picturesque prom features color

With billowing pastel formals, keen sport-coats and trousers, the '52-'53 class officers glided around Austin's Terp Ballroom floor. The breath-taking and picturesque Grand March of the annual junior-senior prom was under way.

Spectators lined the terraces as winding lines of dancers formed intricate patterns.

Then, two by two, couples swung back into dancing rhythm, while others busily filled out dance programs and chatted to their friends.

Twelve o'clock rolled around too soon for most prom-goers as the last musical strains of Dick Finch and his orchestra floated through the air, ending a night that will be long remembered.

"After the ball is over, after the break of day"

Prior to the grand ball, 25 junior couples ate a steak dinner at the Country Club. The meal was served by the Club's pro, Bob Carlson. Other couples went to private punch and dinner parties at the homes of their friends. Flash bulbs popped and lights flickered as pictures of the pretty gals and their guys were taken. Ken Hanson put a lot of miles on his Buick going from house to house, snapping the high-lights of each party.

At twelve, couples piled into their "limousines" and departed for the Country Club. Here the terrific rhythm of "The Hawaiian War Chant" by the Ames Brothers proved to be the hit disc. After a few spins around the dimly lighted floor, girls tried to rest their aching feet by taking off their prom heels—then on with the dancing.

As the sun rose, many couples could be seen out on the golf course trying to hit the ball. Having changed from prom clothes to jeans, sloppy shirts, and loafers, no one had to worry about tearing the layers of net on their formals, or wrinkling a "tux".

When prom-goers at last crawled into bed about 8 a.m., their dreams were filled with thoughts of the enjoyable 1952 classic.

Vocational classes provide experience

As the school year opened, Austin initiated a Vocational Area School setup which offers opportunities to those who have definite professions in mind.

Interest in Machine Shop is unusually high, as evidenced by full enrollments in both the one-hour exploratory course and the three-hour vocational plan. Vocational projects must meet high standards of perfection, since they are comparable to actual job problems.

Vocational hairdressing and beauty culture are taught in another course, cosmetology. Student beauty operators often reach high standards of proficiency. They are then allowed to perform on other members of the student body or community.

A third innovation is a three-hour carpentry course in which blueprint drawing and reading plus architectural work are included as well as actual carpentry and academic work.

New school will enlarge facilities

With the completion of the new Austin area vocational school building about next Christmas, many new shops, labs, and engineering sections will be available to students desiring vocational study. They will be equipped with the latest test equipment and manned by a staff of instructors who are experts in their respective fields.

No longer will students who want specialized training need to attend trade schools, for competent facilities will be available right here in Austin. Lower costs will also make it possible for larger numbers to take advantage of the opportunities. From this setup Austin hopes to receive an adequate home supply of machinists and repairmen for the future.

Two of the courses to be inaugurated are Radio and Television Service, and Electrical Appliance Service and Repair.

The object of the Radio and Television Service Class will be to train competent service personnel for these rapidly expanding fields. With the advent of local television stations and the accompanying volume of new set installations, TV dealers will be confronted with a greater demand for service. This demand can be filled by employing the fully trained graduates of the new course, who have learned to service and repair radio and TV equipment.

The Electrical Appliance Service and Repair will train persons to service and repair all types of appliances in the home and in commercial use.

Both classes will be coordinated with local appliance dealers, thereby enabling presentation of the latest developments in service and repair. This will make the work of greater value to the students.

It's just our life to be merry

Among the favorite "hangouts" of the Austin student body, Brigham's Ice Cream store and the two music stores seem to head the list. After school or on Saturday afternoons, students bend an ear to a phonograph playing the latest disc or spend "free" hours sipping a coke and comparing events of the previous night.

Potlucks also rank high with the guys and gals of Austin. Many times the girls will gather at one of their houses for a pre-game supper. It might turn out that those bringing hot dishes don't get there till most of them have grudgingly filled up on cake or salad and already gone to the game, but that's all part of the fun.

The year would never be complete without the Publications Christmas party. This year it was held at the home of editor-in-chief, Don Ryks. The rec room was decorated in a holiday atmosphere with a Christmas tree, holly, and mistletoe. After filling up on a delicious potluck supper, the Austinian staff and Sentinel heads gathered to sing Christmas carols and dance to their favorite records. As the hours slipped away, so did the students, bringing to an end another wonderful party.

Entertainment proves amusing to students

Since Austin's student body has outgrown the 2100-seat capacity of the large auditorium, it has been necessary to divide the assemblies. Seventh graders are entertained in the small auditorium and the remaining students descend on the large auditorium.

A dance team composed of Jayne Gannon and Ronnie Roope provided entertainment during the half of the thrilling Austin-Albert Lea district tournament battle.

Entertainer Terry Golden kept enrapt seventh graders on the edges of their seats with western and southern folk songs.

Band is fundamental music organization

Marching band is tops in performance

Austin's senior band has for many years performed between halves at football games. Varied and intricate patterns which were conducted under the tutelage of C. V. "Pop" Sperati, have provided entertainment for interested watchers. Last fall, following weeks of hard work, the unit was able to spell AUSTIN the full length of the field. Amid the cheers of fans and visitors, the band, headed by high stepping majorettes, returned to their special section in the grandstand to provide more music throughout the game.

Concert plays sweet and low

As well known as the scarlet and white of Austin's athletic teams is the two-toned blue uniform of its band. To many an aspiring young musician, the flame of ambition to belong to the band burns as bright as the similar desire of an athlete to be a great star.

Although primarily a concert and marching unit, the senior band won a gold cup in 1952 for being the best Pep Band at the State Fair. Since Austin attracted the largest crowd of the ten appearing bands, it was named top pep band.

Two regularly scheduled concerts during the school year add variety to the program of marches, swing tunes, school songs, and novelty numbers which are chief features of the band's appearances at all home athletic events. A few favorite selections such as "Stars and Stripes Forever" and "At the Gremlin Ball" are standbys, retained each year by popular request.

Orchestras form big part of music program

Another fine music organization offered to the students of Austin is the Symphony Orchestra.

The orchestra performs twice a year in public concerts, and also plays for the grade school. Concert selections chosen by the orchestra vary from classical offerings like "Der Fleidermaus" to popular numbers like "Blue Moon."

Traditionally, the orchestra took part in the Big Nine select music festival. Fifteen members were chosen to represent Austin at the Northfield meeting. Ann Carlson was chosen concert mistress, while Lenny Addington and Mary Jo Meister were named first and second chair cellos respectively, and Sara Lagervall was picked as first chair viola.

The second orchestra closely resembles the junior band, for it serves the same purpose. From it are picked the replacements for the graduating string members of the orchestra.

This year, with the split assembly schedule, the junior orchestra had an opportunity to perform for the seventh graders. They also appeared in public concert with the senior group.

Minor bands increase in size yearly

Junior and beginner bands of former years are diminutive as compared to the large organizations of this year and the future. This overpopulation of musicians will by 1955 increase the junior group from 95 members to about 200. A direct result of enlarging will be the increase in competition for the privilege of entering senior band.

Twice a year, the junior band combines with the senior group in public concerts. Marching for homecoming and on Memorial Day are highlights for the juniors.

Size of the beginners' band is also increasing by leaps and bounds. Beginners lack uniforms of their own, so marching is reserved for the older musicians.

Their voices rise in joyous song

At Christmas time, everyone's thoughts turn to the annual Christmas concert.

In front of a background made to resemble stained glass windows by the skill of art students, the combined choir of the junior college and both high school choruses plus a stringed ensemble provide their audience with favorite Yuletide carols as well as some of the less well-known tunes.

February's talent show starred Nancy Zein, Joanne Kester, Ralph Smith, Beverly Mellem, Bonnie Leck and Elizabeth Raasch. Featured were Fred Waring arrangements.

Out of the junior chorus has come one of the most talented ensembles to appear in some time. Nine girls make up the Triple Trio which has harmonized at public gatherings in addition to singing for its high school audience. The girls highlighted a winter songfest with their sparkling arrangement of "Winter Wonderland."

Miss Jeanne Dudley directs the junior choir as well as the Triple Trio. Paul O. Heltne is in charge of the senior chorus, and Richard Lockwood is maestro of the junior college organization.

An all-state chorus appearing on the program for MEA included 24 Austin singers, and another group participated in the Big 9 Music Festival held in Northfield during February.

Again this year on May 1 at Albert Lea the entire chorus participated in the Big 9 Music Festival. The affair was the last concert scheduled by the chorus during the school year.

Drama club supplies outlet for actors

The "ever-popular" Thespian Drama Club was very active this year, presenting two plays, "Double Date" and "Growing Pains", to the student body. The Senior Friendship Tea entertainment included "In the Suds," a one act comedy. Three radio plays and meetings once a month completed their activities.

The Thespians gave four scenes from the three-act play, "Growing Pains," a satire on teen-agers. David P. Johnson and Connie Chambers played the juvenile leads, and David McLaughlin was their Latin professor father.

Again this year Miss Lorna Bates did a fine job of directing the plays and advising the club.

Prompting is not a job for the weak-hearted, say prompters Donna Sheetz and Beverly Mellem. Tom Togas shows his displeasure with Elizabeth Raasch in Our Miss Brooks. In The Robe, Neil Ludvigson greets Ruth Playing Our Miss Brooks, Liz Raasch had Tom Togas as the object of her affections in the fall play.

Both plays were directed by Miss Cecily Spaulding, with assistance from Misses Alyce Purdham and Abigail Moore.

Swing your partner, around you go

"Swing your partner! Around you go!" Something new was tried at a Senior Friendship Club meeting this year when the cabinet planned an evening of square dancing. Paul Hull called for the event and a big turnout enjoyed an evening of entertainment. Refreshments were served after the dancing.

Do you ever need a guide? SFC girls are on hand at several events during the year lending assistance to people who are new to the building.

More talent and less style was the theme at the annual style-talent show. Several musical acts provided entertainment between scenes of lush fashions.

April brought a combined meeting with the Hi-Y to discuss problems in dating and entertaining.

Both boys and girls participated on the panel and there was a question period at the end which brought forth a lively discussion from the audience.

Junior girls serve honor society reception

For the second time, junior members of the Friendship Club served at a tea in honor of the National Honor Society members. Parents of the lucky seniors were entertained in the cafeteria after the formal installation.

Miss Louise Anderson, cosmetologist in charge of vocational beauty culture classes, was a guest speaker at one of the meetings.

She urged complete cleanliness as the first step to beauty. She believes neatness is much more important than great variety in clothing.

Installation of officers held in May had a different theme this year. Officers and cabinet members wore formals and the stage was decorated in a spring look.

Are you lost? That is have you lost anything? Perhaps you have found yourself or something. Well, one thing that is never lost is the Lost and Found Desk squatting on its four legs on second floor.

Have you been politely removed from the Library by a student supervisor? If you have, you probably didn't appreciate this person or what he was doing. Remember though, he is only performing his duties.

Noon hour changes accepted by students

One of the biggest changes to hit the high school in recent years went into operation at the beginning of the second semester. A shortened noon hour was adopted. Now, at the end of several months' trial, students have grown accustomed to it. Most of them feel that it is an improvement, especially the change of hours, which means starting school later in the morning.

All told, some sixty students serve as cashiers, door guards, supervisors in the halls and the cafeteria, and as actual helpers in the cafeteria.

Tardy writers get “lobster trick”

“Lobster trick!” That is detention in journalism language, is the thing every Tuesday at 3:08 when there is the last minute rush to meet a deadline for stories. Last year’s Sentinel staff received an All-American rating on the paper, which comes out once every two weeks, giving the ’52-3 staff a goal to strive for.

To an outsider, confusion may seem to be the theme for Room 204, home of the Austinian staff. Out of that hustle and bustle, however, comes Austin High’s yearbook.

Honors bestowed on deserving leaders

Scholarship, character, leadership and service were the traits on which fifteen per cent of the senior class were chosen for the National Honor Society. Any senior boy or girl who possessed these qualities had a chance to become a member of this group. This year the choice was hard and as a result, a number of students who were just below the line had to be left out.

A formal installation was held on March 12 in the auditorium, after which parents and students were entertained at a reception in the cafeteria.

One more than a baker's dozen met Quill and Scroll membership requirements and were initiated March 5. Active members chose new members on the basis of scholarship and the interest they took in journalistic work.

Quill and Scroll, international society for high school journalists, thus honors members of the Sentinel and Austinian annually. They then receive cards and pins signifying their acceptance into the fraternity.

Operating with a smaller and more concise representation, the Student Council was an effective agency.

All Council members spent a day at the Big 9 meeting at Rochester. Dick Anderson and Norma Anderson also attended the state convention at Mankato.

Benefit mixers for the March of Dimes, an organization for the care of war orphans, and the Overseas Blind were sponsored by the Council.

Service groups take over responsibilities

Do students appreciate the movies they have in the class room? Known as the "Fog-dall boys," the helpers who volunteer to work go from room to room putting up and taking down black curtains, wheeling movie projectors to the various rooms, and delivering films. Girls are responsible for scheduling the films and taking care of other general office work.

Every hour, students volunteer to help the teachers in study halls. They do such things as checking attendance and taking out slips. Besides keeping general order in the study hall, they make out building passes.

Camera Club, meeting once a month, conducts discussions about improving pictures. Camera bugs also practice developing, enlarging and taking good pictures. In the spring, members of the club go on field trips to Todd Park, where they snap scenery shots. A contest is sponsored by the club each year. The dark room is open to any camera club member. Students do portrait work of each other, then print, enlarge, tone, and tint their own negatives.

Slaves initiated on trip to "Hades"

Known as the "Trip to Hades," the initiation of slaves opened the year for the Latin Club. Some new citizens still claim sore knees from bowing before the "kings."

The Slave Auction was both fun and a money making project for members. Tom Togas, auctioneer, sold over fifty slaves to Roman citizens. Inflation hit the club with a bang as the top slave brought $4.95.

Saturnalia, a harvest festival holiday in Roman times, was celebrated at the December meeting. Each person brought a toy which was sent either to the state school at Faribault or to the Mower County Welfare Board. A mock king, Tom Golden, was elected to reign over the special event.

A Roman wedding featured Margie Richardson and Ted Colescott. Just before the ceremony, the bride's hair was divided into six locks by the point of a spear.

A candlelight installation service was held for incoming officers. Don Ryks, retiring consul, surrendered his toga and gavel to the new president, Jim Todd. Completing the year's activities was a funeral ceremony for the Pontifex Maximus. The corpse of the high priest, Jack Frost, was escorted to the auditorium by a procession of mourners.

Miss Margaret Scarseth guards the destinies of the Roman subjects.

Let's join make-believe Mexico

If anyone ever wants to visit Mexico, he doesn't have to leave the halls of Austin High School. By taking a few turns and climbing a couple flights of stairs, he arrives at room 317, the home of make-believe Mexico.

Poverty is unknown among "our Mexicans," for the peasants hold several outlandish parties.

Breaking the Pinata, a large Mexican jar, commences the Christmas celebration. It is filled with small gifts, and when it is finally broken, everyone claims his prize.

Girls take on many office jobs

A new attendance office was added this year when Doron Warren moved to room 315 to become the junior high assistant principal and Glen Darling took over the vacated office on second floor. In addition to these offices, there are three other spots in the building where senior high girls may offer their assistance to the teachers in charge. These include the nurses' office, the custodial office, and the music office.

Girls in the assistant principals' offices, collect hourly attendance slips. They also deliver papers carrying "special invitations" which call students to the offices or other appointments.

Paul Heltne, of the music department, keeps his helpers busy mending sheet music, typing letters, and filing.

When one needs a custodian, the girls in Arthur Christgau's office find one.

Mrs. Beatrice Witt, the school nurse, can always find things for girls to do around her office. General office work such as filing, typing, and answering the telephone keeps them busy the entire hour.

Over seventy girls took part in the activities of the junior FHA this year.

During the first semester, each section of girls prepared and served meals to a guest section. The girls who acted as hostesses gained experience in planning, buying, preparing, and serving the meal. They also engineered the entertainment and decorations for the room.

Hi-Y revises setup under Y secretary

Hi-Y adopted a new plan introduced by Ralph Schloming, local YMCA secretary. A chapter plan was set up by grades, with each chapter having its own officers which formed a collective cabinet.

In the presence of their parents, about thirty new members took part in an induction ceremony held at the Presbyterian church.

Furniture was bought, varnished, and presented to the YMCA by a committee of boys from the club. To add to this record, a group of boys known as the Voluntary Office Force, works at the YMCA during their study hall periods.

Hi-Y had a record number of paid up members this year with a total of 75. Of these, about 45 belong to the Usher's club, a service organization which provides ushers for all events held at the school. Hi-Y boys took over the ushering jobs at their local churches on YMCA Sunday.

Austin feels pride in FFA trophy

Students should be proud of Austin's FFA chapter. Not only is it the largest chapter in the state, but it is one of the most active.

This year they were the recipients of the traveling Premier Exhibitors' Trophy for showing outstanding livestock at the State Fair.

There are many contests in which the members have an opportunity to participate. Some of these are dairy, crops, soils, general livestock, judging, and parliamentary procedure on the local, district, and state level.

Last year, the FFA, in cooperation with the Mower County Fair Board, set up a Children's Farm Yard. This proved to be a very popular display of farm animals for local adults as well as children.

Hard work creates top local athletes

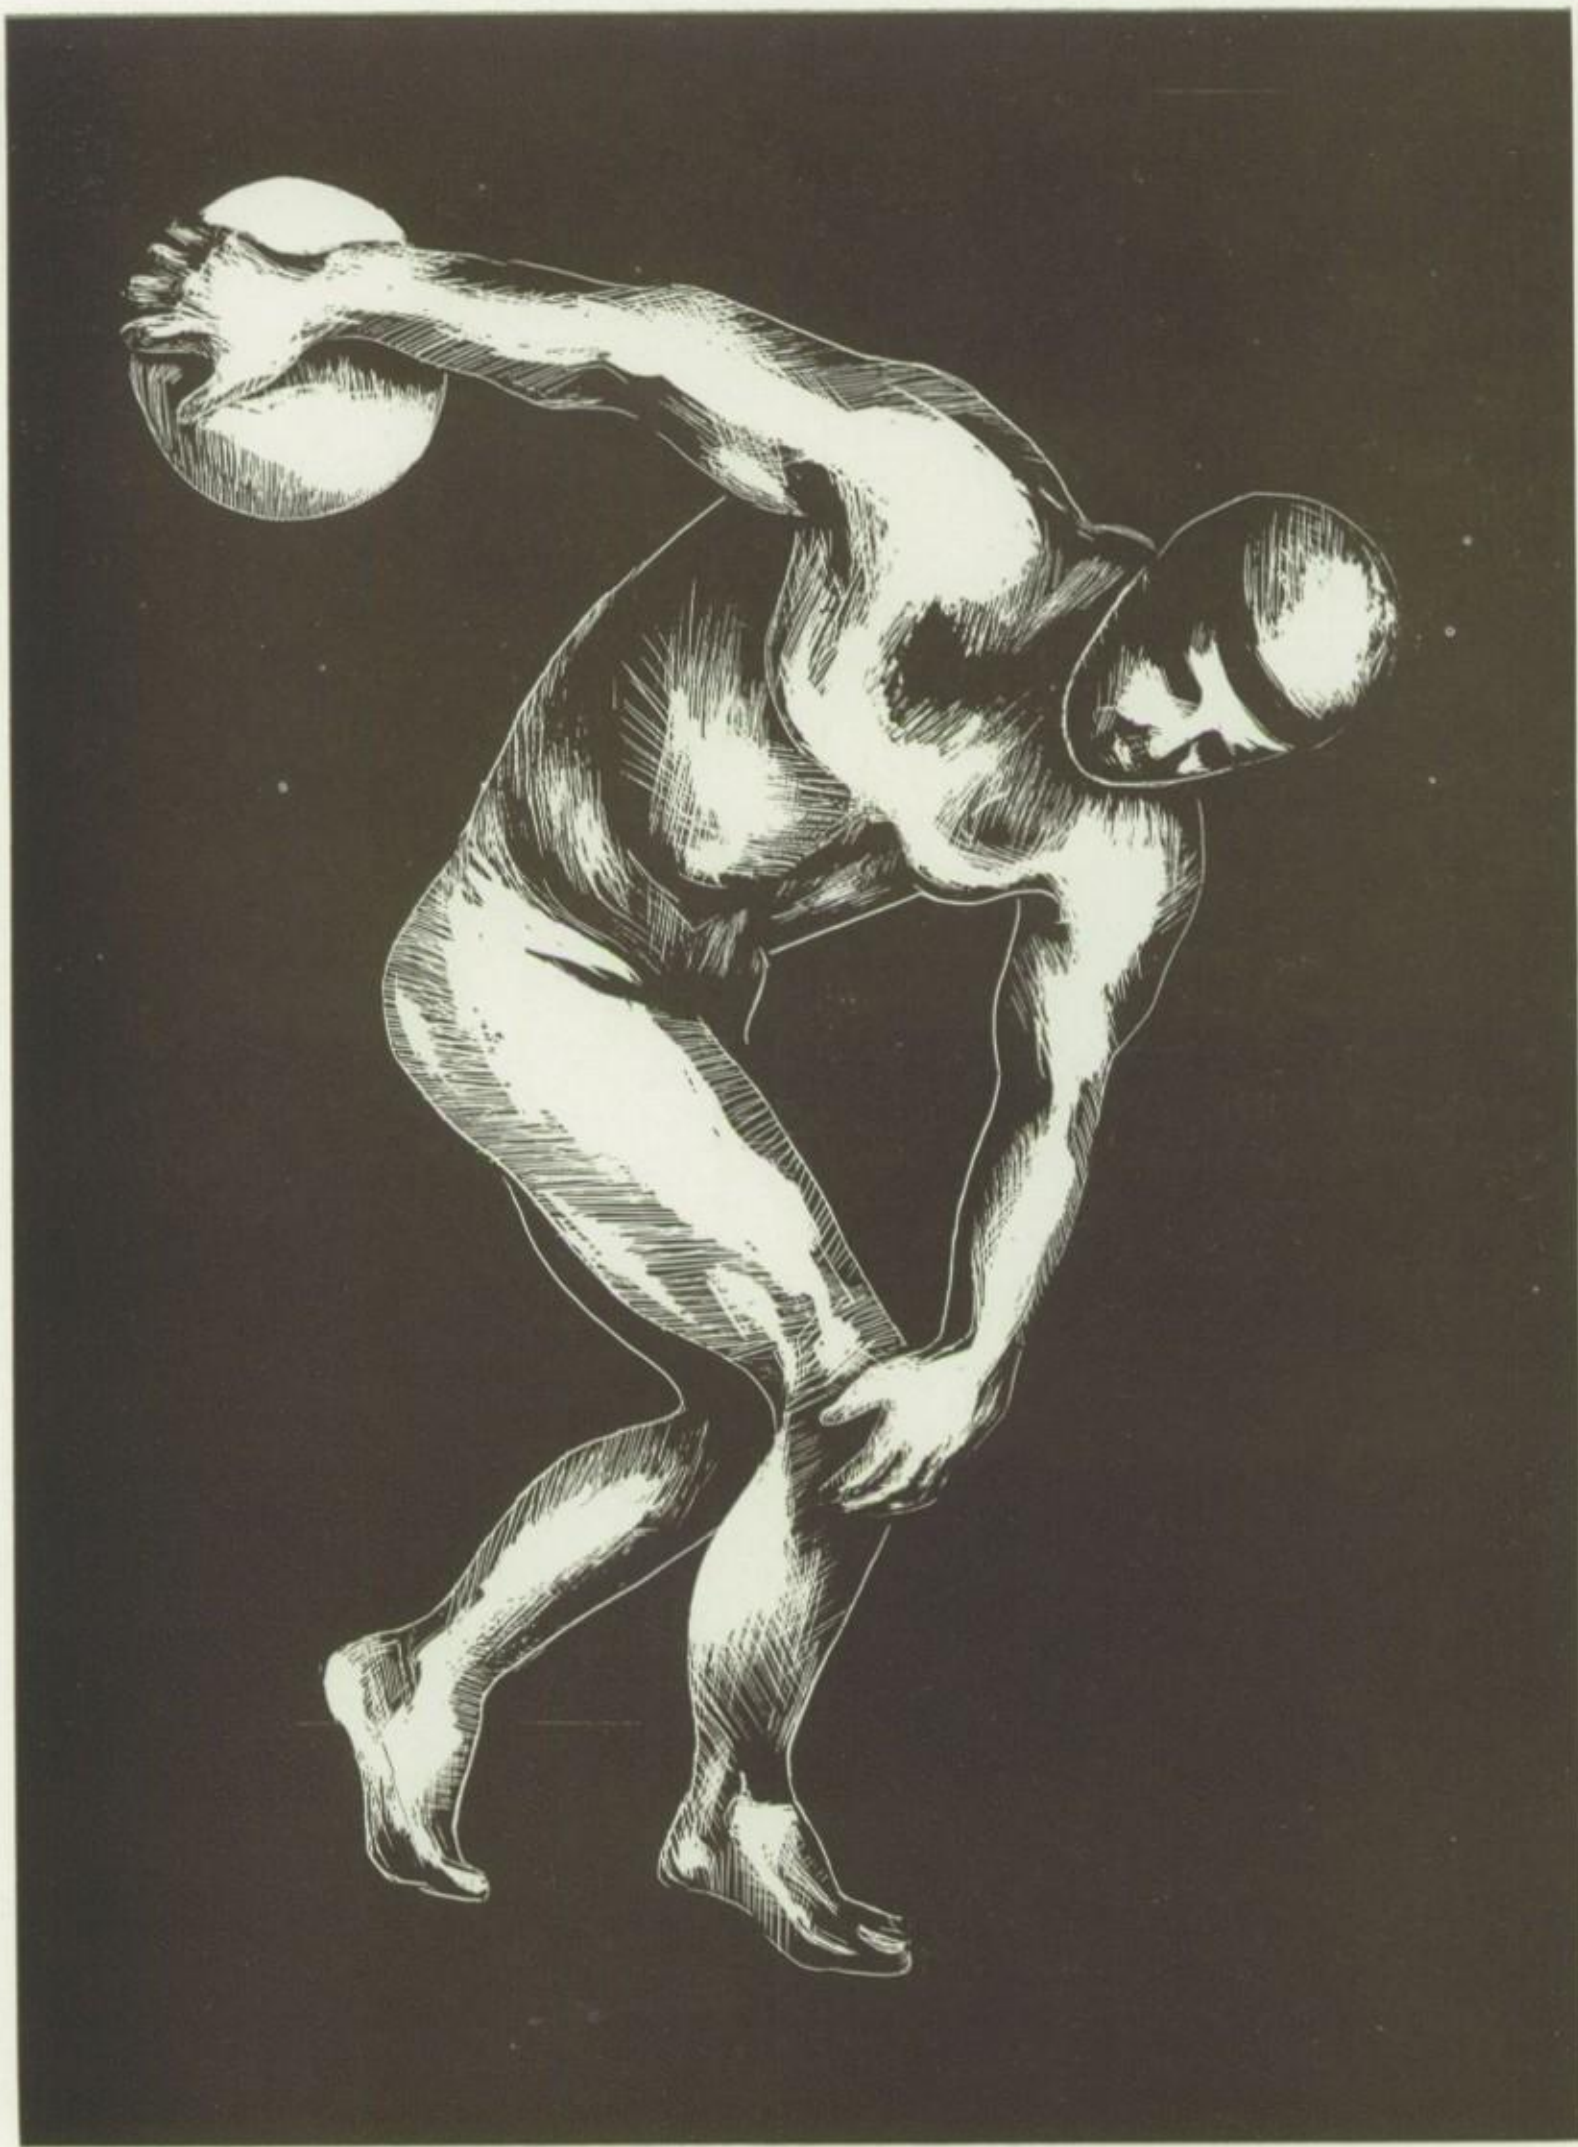

Beginning with the opening of football practice in the fall and closing with baseball in the spring, many eager Austin Highers participate in all fields of athletics. From these, the coaching staff molds teams which consistently prove themselves the best in the Big 9.

Local youth receive athletic instruction from the time they are of grade-school age until they graduate. Hard work, sweat, and self-discipline ultimately produce smooth functioning, hard-to-beat teams.

Above all, though, is sportsmanship. Fans as well as players are looked upon to fulfill their responsibility for fair play. No one can be a winner forever. Somewhere, sometime every team is bound to get beaten, and knowing how to be a good loser counts just as much as knowing how to be a good winner.

Red and Ted retire; Hal carries on Minnesota state high school football coaches are through seeing "Red." That fact was recently established when Red Hastings resigned as head coach at Austin.

During his 15-year Big 9 reign, his teams set a phenomenal record of 79 wins, 5 ties, and only 11 losses. This year's loss to Faribault was the second in a 56-game streak.

Many championships have been won under Red's direction. The Big 9 was first copped in 1943, and then six consecutive years beginning in '46. Rochester shared the '48 title. Since the introduction of state rating in 1947, Austin has won 3 championships and also gained a second and a seventh.

The Packers are losing more than one of their coaches, however, as a severe case of polio has benched Ted Gillett. After becoming sick at Thanksgiving, Mr. Gillett was confined to Sister Kenny Institute. There he is regaining the use of his legs, and the 60 pounds he lost because of the illness.

Winona tied 6-6

As the curtain rose on the 1953 gridiron season for the Austin Packers, they met and tied a strong Winona team 6-6. Although the Winhawks were strong, it was greenness and fumbles that slowed the Austin attack most. A talented sophomore, Dave "Chico" Ploof, led the offensive attack with his shifty running, as well as scoring Austin's lone touchdown on a 40-yard screen pass.

Vocational smashed 26-6

With Coach Red Hastings and son Bob confined to their home by polio, the Packers rolled to a 26-6 victory over a hard-fighting Vocational team. Chico Ploof's passing and Jim Grothe's spectacular running led the Packer offense. They continually marched for long gains behind a strong forward wall, headed by Griff Owens and Berwyn Ploof.

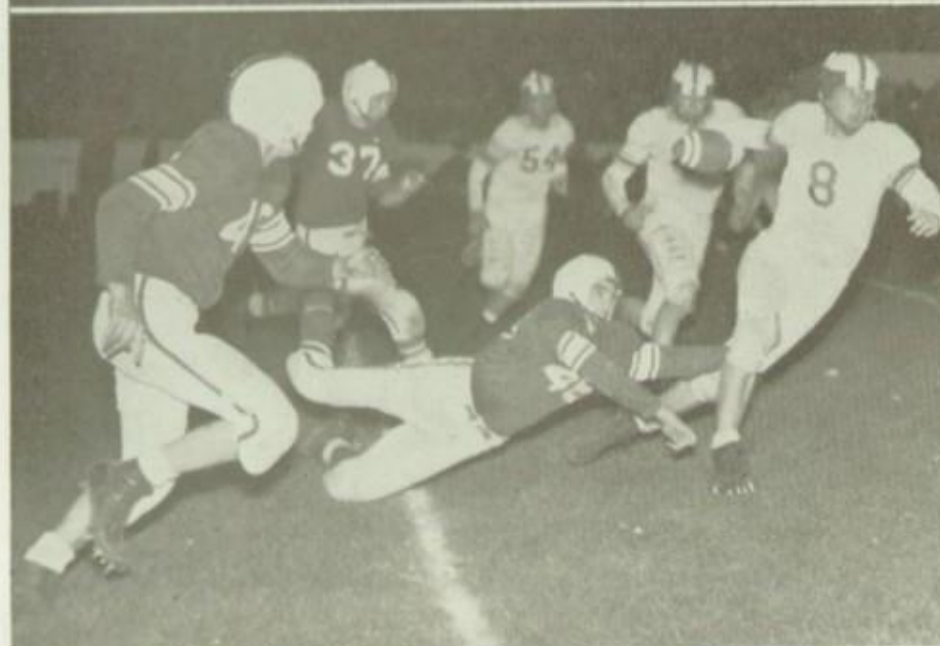

Red Wing dumped 32-18

Although considered a chief threat for the Big 9 title, Red Wing was the victim of a stunning 32-18 defeat by Austin.

The offensively-minded teams matched each other in scoring the first half as it ended 12-12. Grothe and Hastings broke loose for two quick touchdowns in the fourth quarter to clinch the victory.

Owatonna submerged 16-0

A strong Owatonna defense limited the Packers to a 16-0 victory. After a scoreless first quarter, an Owatonna fumble and an intercepted lateral by Dick Dahl were converted into a touchdown and a field goal by Jim Grothe and Frank Luksik.

Austin's final score came on a 56-yard pass, Bob Hastings to Berwyn Ploof.

Mankato routed 33-7

Queen Marlene Nordland climaxed her reign by watching the Packers triumph 33-7 over an outclassed Mankato team.

The offense ground out nineteen first downs, as Bob Hastings, Dick Dahl, and Jim Grothe hit paydirt for Austin. Griff Owens, Jim Todd, and Bob Nelson played sterling defense.

Faribault derails 14-7

An inspired, upset-minded Faribault eleven sidetracked Austin's fabulous gridiron express at 36 straight games.

After a 7-7 halftime deadlock, a recovery on the Packer 31 enabled the Falcons to march to a well-deserved 14-7 victory.

Rochester undermined 33-0

Austin rebounded from the Faribault defeat to crush Rochester 33-0 for a sparkling Dads' Night victory.

Crisp blocking, hard running, and the pinpoint precision of Bob Hastings' passing arm gave Austin five touchdowns. Grothe and Hastings each scored twice, and Pete Arett hauled in a Hastings' pass for the other. Grothe's 62-yard jaunt was the longest of the year.

Northfield upsets 26-20

An underdog Northfield team pulled another of its surprises, and for the third straight time this season upset a favored team.

Scott, Pumper, and Rock gained yards every time they touched the ball, as did the Austin backs, led by Dave Folkestad.

Pumper's 53-yard gallop tipped the balance to Northfield 26-20.

Albert Lea offends 12-7

In the final game of the season for both clubs, a fighting Tiger eleven clawed their way to a 12-7 upset victory over Austin.

The Packers scored first on a pitchout to Flanagan, but the Tigers quickly retaliated, Jacobs to Knutson. Jacobs was on the receiving end of the clincher.

Although this year's "B" football team didn't have too impressive a record, squad members showed considerable improvement as the season progressed.

Green Packers have surprising season

Although this was supposed to be Austin's rebuilding year, several surprises were in store for the faithful. One of these was the tremendous 74-56 victory over Sioux Falls Washington at Williams Arena. Sioux Falls was considered the best in South Dakota.

Everyone was calling this year's quintet the Yankees of southern Minnesota, after they gained their seventeenth trip to the state tournament. Since the Packers started with only one regular and one reserve back, fans had not even conceded them a chance to make it past the District. However, Albert Lea's Tigers fell victim to Austin's tournament spirit in the opening round 67-60.

Austin then romped on to the regional, where Owatonna almost proved their match. The Indians tumbled 63-61, as Bob Hastings poured in 33 points to put the Packers in the state for the third straight year.

In their opening game, Austin faced Bemidji, king of Region 8. It was a red hot scoring duel, as both teams dunked in baskets at almost a 50 per cent clip. Bemidji finally won the bucket race, 75-73.

It was no disgrace for the Packers to drop their final game, as the loss came at the hands of Red Wing, near conquerors of state champion Hopkins.

Veteran Bob Hastings dumped in 20 points to lead his greener mates to a surprising 63-47 victory over Minneapolis South. This opening triumph was a pleasant indication of better things to come, since South was highly rated in the Twin Cities.

Combining a speedy fast break and a pressing defense, the Mason City Mohawks spilled Austin 45-41 at Mason City.

Two quick buckets by Kenny Bennett with only seconds remaining put the damper on hopes for a Packer victory.

Packers gain three conference triumphs

In their first conference start of the 1953 season, Austin dropped Rochester, 53-50. An aggressive defense and some nifty 16-point sharp-shooting by Hastings and Meyer turned the trick for the Packers.

After holding a 23-18 halftime advantage, the Packers had to stave off a Rocket rally for the victory.

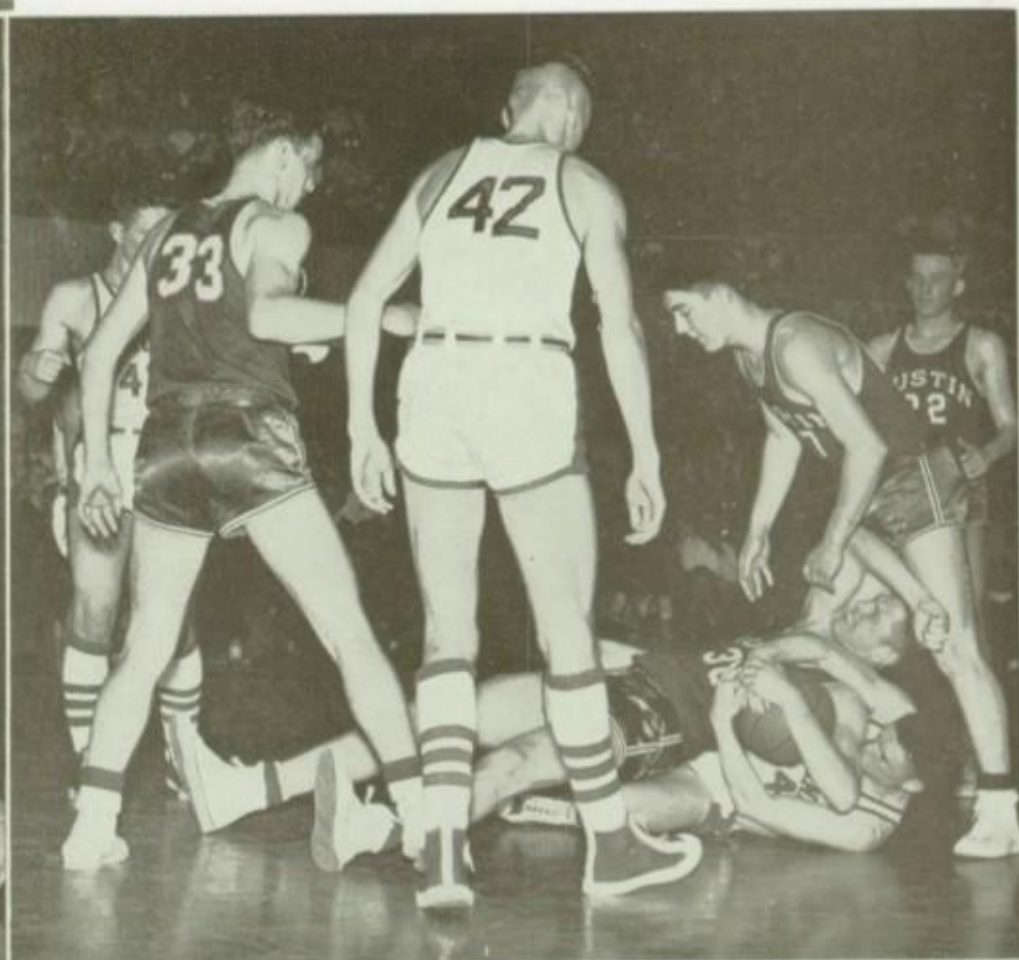

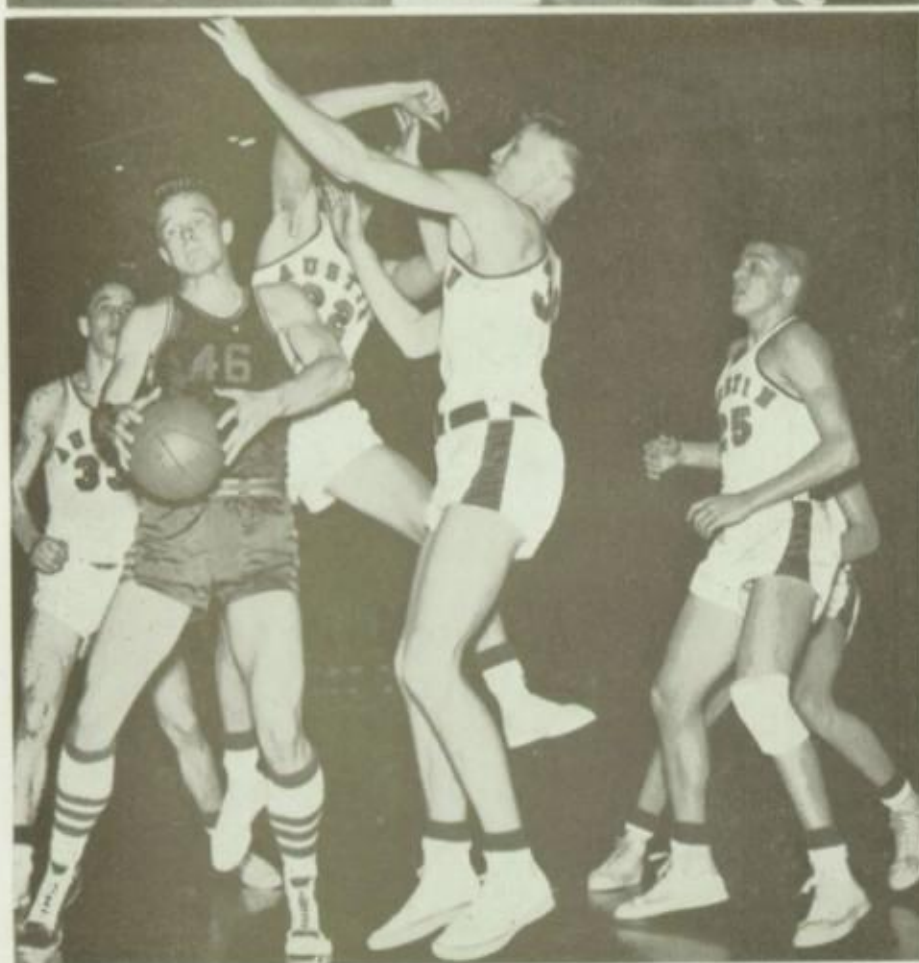

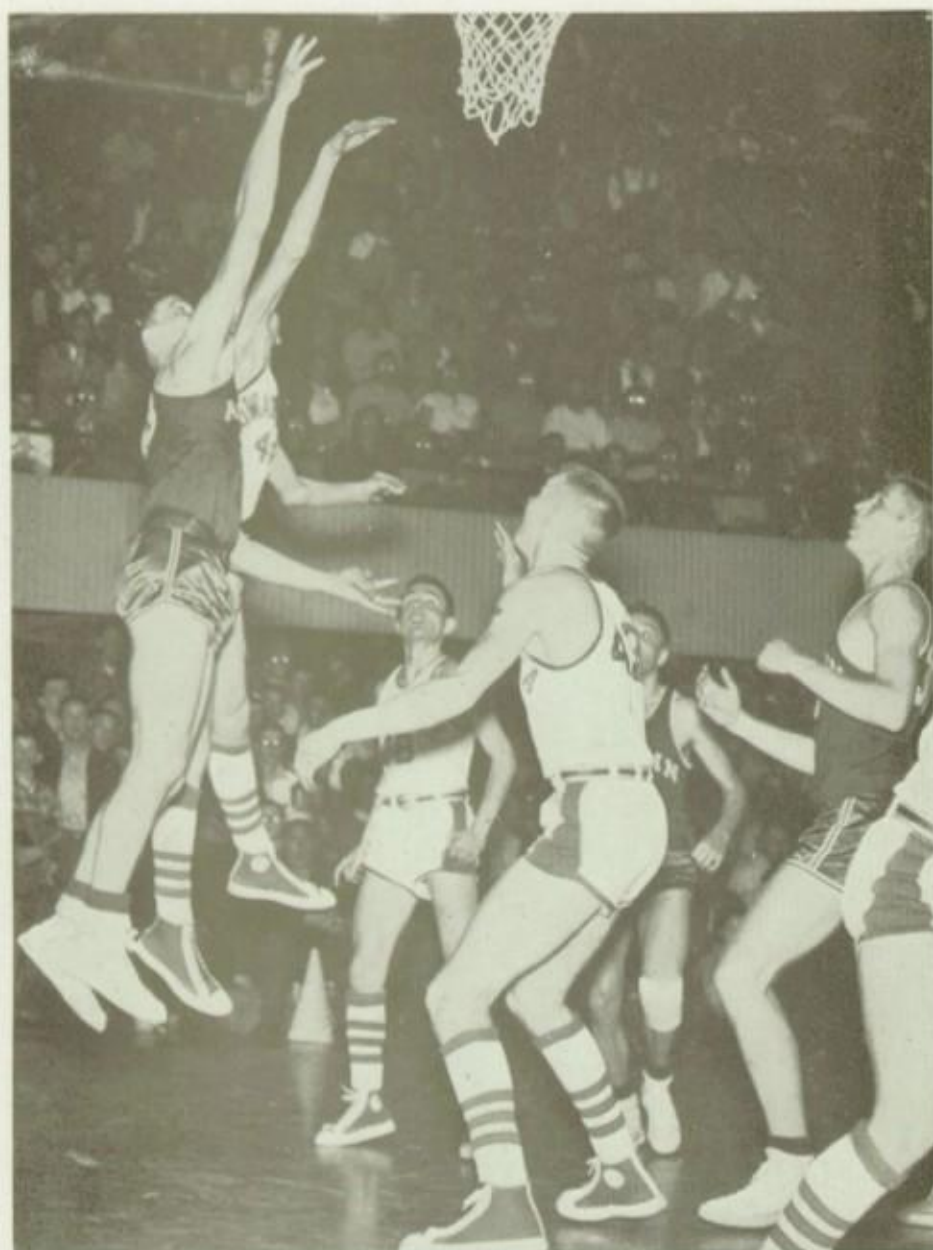

As the Packers' first clash with Albert Lea came to a close, two pressure free throws dropped by Bob Hastings after the game ended tied the score at 55-all and enabled Austin to gain a 64-61 overtime win. Bob McKay hit 16, and Jerry Olson 6 in the overtime, to pace the attack.

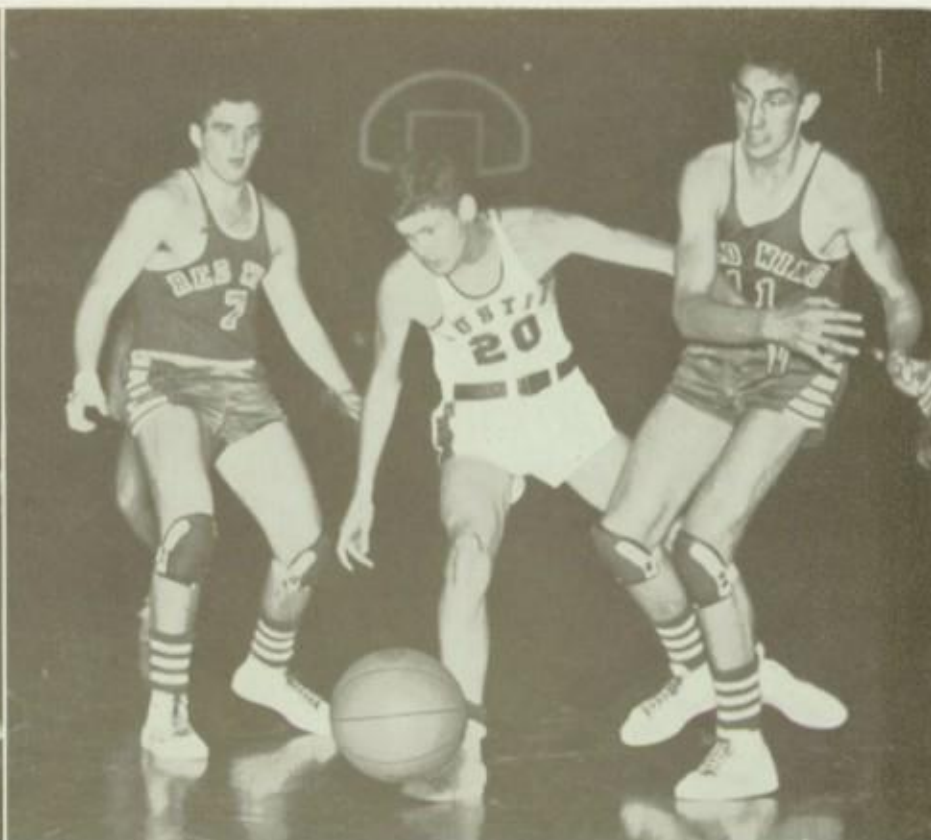

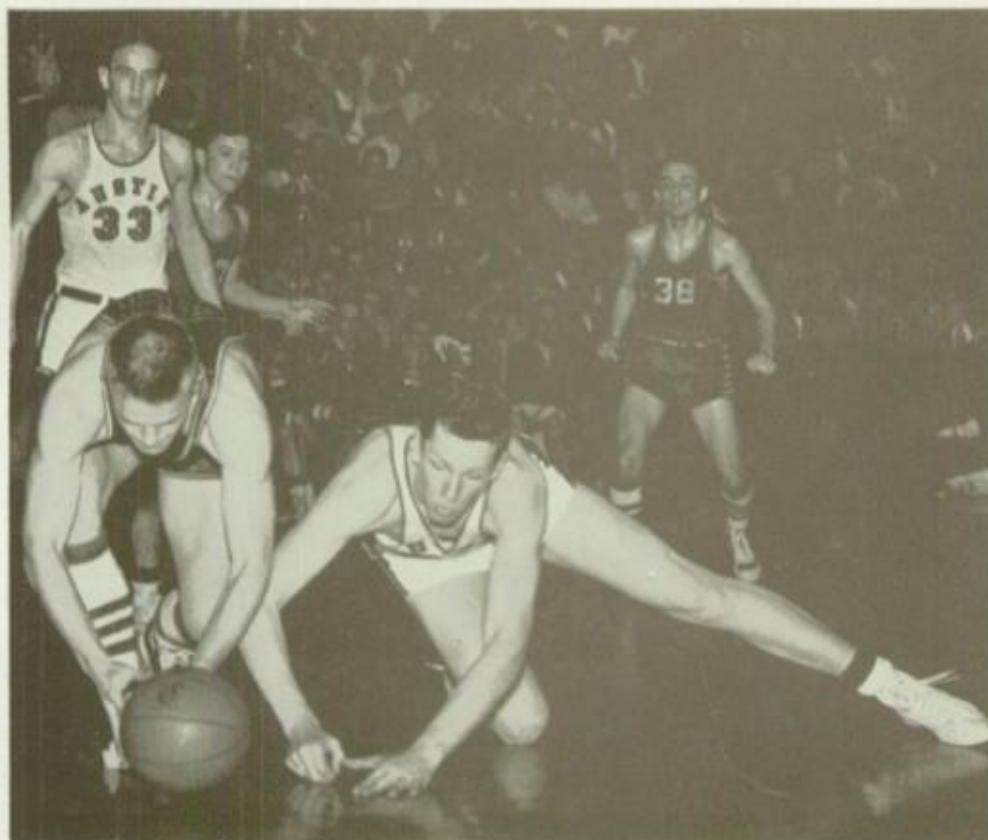

Scoring a field goal in the last 16 seconds of play, an aggressive Edina five handed Austin a 58-56 setback.

The Packers were constantly in trouble, with Bob McKay, who burned the nets for 21, the only consistent Austin scorer. Jim Joslin dunked 20 for Edina.

Dick Dahl turned in a remarkable defensive job on Winona hotshot Al Svenningson, to enable the Packers to grab their third conference triumph.

Austin led only 30-29 at half-time, but rallied on Jerry Olson's 16 points to win going away, 52-41.

Successful weekend brings two victories

Picking up their fourth straight conference victory, Austin left Mankato by the wayside, 65-51. Outclassing the Scarlets all the way, the Packers showed form that could belong to a championship team. Jumpshot artist, Bob McKay, riffled the nets for 22 points.

Utilizing good rebounding, a tight defense, plus a good shooting percentage, the Packers rolled over Owatonna, 67-51.

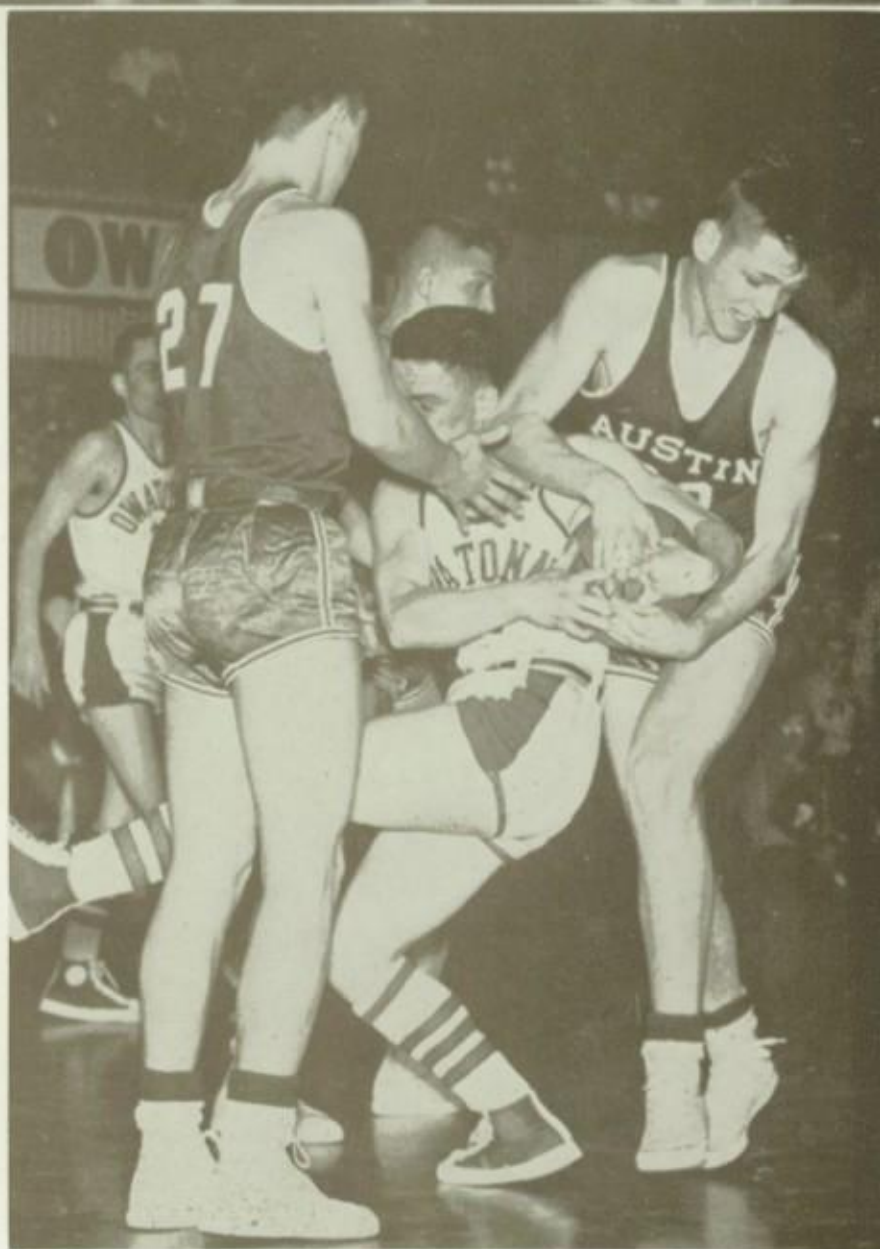

Bob Hastings led the offensive attack by pouring in 23 points, as Winston Folkers the Big 9 leading scorer, netted 24 for the Indians.

The Packers journeyed to Williams Arena on Saturday and climaxed a successful weekend by downing Sioux Falls Washington, 74-56.

Shellacking of the highly touted South Dakota five was accomplished with mechanical precision, as it was the best team game of the year. Four of the starting five hit double figures.

Faribault continued to hold an upset jinx over Austin, as they hustled their way to a 52-48 victory.

Late in the fourth period, the Packers muffed a chance to pull ahead. With the ball in their possession, the Berven boys found the basket covered, as countless shots rolled off the rim.

Austin, Albert Lea battle once again

Sparked by guard Don Rye, Albert Lea's Tigers rudely shattered Austin's dreams of a conference championship, as they spilled the Packers 59-57. A typical Austin-Albert Lea battle, the outcome was in doubt until Rye hit a bucket as the buzzer sounded.

Frank Luksik tied Rye for scoring honors with 17 points.

Although big Bob Schmidt garnered 27 points, the rest of Rochester's squad proved ineffective from the field as they fell to the Packers, 66-59.

Dick Dahl turned in his best scoring performance in collecting 11 points. Bob Hastings also helped the cause by netting 20.

As a terrific blizzard raged outside, Austin enjoyed one of their hottest shooting nights in handing Northfield their tenth straight conference setback, 81-55.

Smooth floor play and balanced scoring added up to a well-played game for Berven's cagers.

Fighting five cop district crown

It was 20 points for Bob Hastings against Red Wing's fine squad, but he couldn't take up the slack that was left when his mates suffered one of their coldest shooting nights of the year. Bernie Raetz and the Deden brothers, Dick and Wayne, combined for 42 points to ice the 66-54 win.

Even though Austin was inexperienced at the beginning of the season, it was Albert Lea who was green with envy after they succumbed to the Packers in the District, 67-60. Dick Dahl held the Tigers' high-scoring Bill Bridley to one field goal, as Jerry Olson and Bob Hastings got 25 and 21 points, respectively.

Coach Ove Berven was able to use his reserves for the first time since play downs started, as the Packers turned back Rose Creek 79-51 for the District title. It was Austin's defense which shone again, for 6'5" center John Root of the Creekers was only able to collect 11 points.

Packers gain seventeenth trip to state tourney

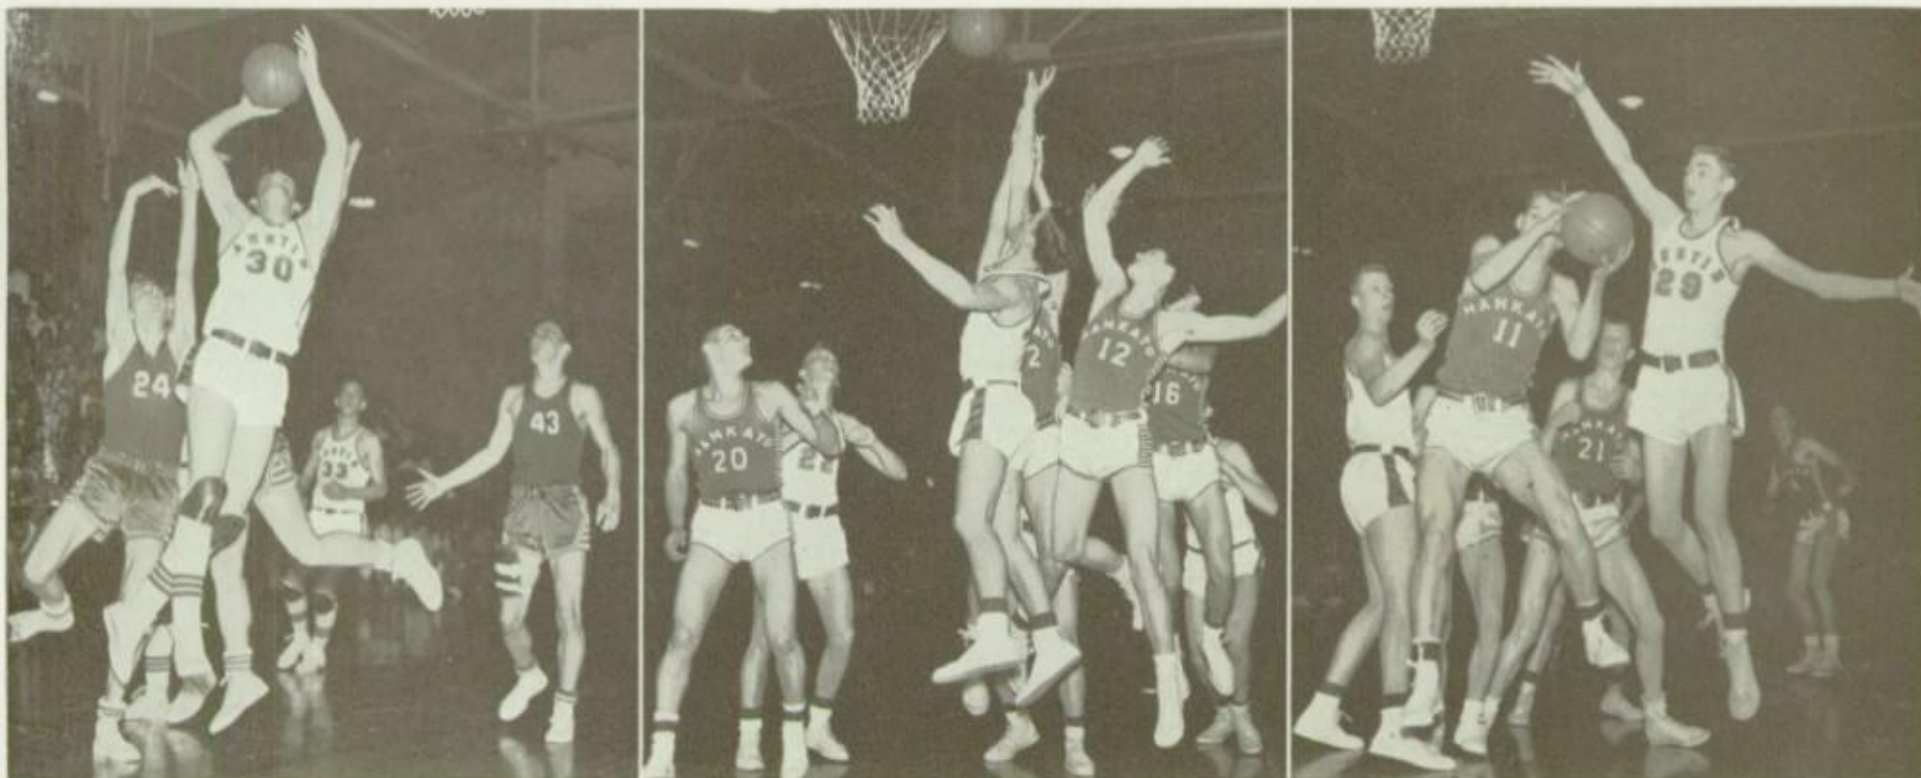

The first game of the Regional found the Packers taking an 82-57 decision from Rushford. A tight defense held Dick Smaby, their high scoring center, to 10 points, as Bob McKay contributed 25 to the Packer cause. John Lightly got 7 in the 4th quarter for Austin in this last home game of the season.

It was 10 baskets and 13 straight free throws, a total of 33 points by Bob Hastings, which helped put Austin in the State Tournament for the 17th time. Continually rallying from deficits of 5 or more points, the Packers finally squeezed out a 63-61 win to gain a seventeenth trip to the state.

State's opening game provides thrills galore

It was up and down the floor for 32 thrill-packer minutes in Austin's opening game of the State Tournament. Jerry Olson and Bob McKay contributed 48 points between them, but a last second Bemidji basket doomed their efforts to failure. Jim Lawrence dunked 22 in Bemidji's 75-73 triumph.

Two new records were set by the Packers in as many appearances, as each time they stepped on the floor the two-team total fell. Red Wing proved once again they had too much manpower by taking an 84-67 decision. The game was fairly close in the first half, but the Wingers pulled away for the win.

B's show spunk in copping nine

Although the B squad started slowly, they came back powerfully to down their last seven opponents and finish with a 9-4 season record. After losing to Lyle and Mason City, the B's got on the right track with victorious outings against Adams and Rochester. Albert Lea and Winona took close decisions before the B's final triumphs over Mankato, Owatonna, Faribault, Albert Lea, Rochester, Northfield, and Red Wing.

Once Tony Maus and Odis Halvorson began finding the range, opponents fell thick and fast. Both counted over 100 points for the season. Starting guards Terry Meyer and Gordy Anderson also contributed their share, as did Tom Holgate, Bob Boyenga, Bill Dunlap, and Gary Lunde.

These standouts, along with Bob Mathias, Jack Smith, Henry Gower, Bill Tate, and John Holgate, should provide some topflight varsity material for the next few years.

Golf team takes second in Big 9

Austin's linkmen compiled a formidable record in '52, losing only to Albert Lea's Big Nine and state championship quartet. Captain Bob Nelson led his aggregation to five victories in seven attempts, and second place in the Big Nine. Faribault and Rochester each fell victim twice, with Northfield losing once.

Coach Walt Lembcke should again have a top-flight contender this year with Nelson, Ted Colescott, Dave Johnson, Don Christianson, and newly elected captain LaRue Johnson as his "eagle" hunters. The job will be to find replacements for Loel Jan, Jerry Sill, and Jack Buck, who were lost by graduation.

Packer nine advances to state finals

The number 13 proved lucky for tiny Halstad in the state baseball finals last year as they ended Austin's string at 16 consecutive triumphs. After advancing to the finals, Coach Dick Seltz's nine faltered in the clutch to come out second best in the state.

Throughout the year it was the terrific clouting of Dick Anderson and Bob Hastings which led the team. Both batted over .400, collected a homerun, and together with Dave Meyer will form the veteran nucleus around which this year's team will be built.

Before entering the state play-downs, the diamond squad had also picked off the Big Nine title for the second straight year. Hastings led the attack as Austin collected 32 hits in defeating Mankato, Winona, and Owatonna to cop the title.

Resignation of head track coach Charles Willard came as a big surprise. After six years of teaching the boys to run, jump, vault, and throw, he decided to turn over the reins to John Saari, who will attempt to carry on with the returning veterans.

The chief returning prospects include Jim Grothe, Mike Flanagan, Marvin Foster, Dale Dahl, Myron Jensen, and Duane Thorson. Loss of sprinter Dave Folkestad because of a kidney infection somewhat dimmed hopes for an exceptional season.

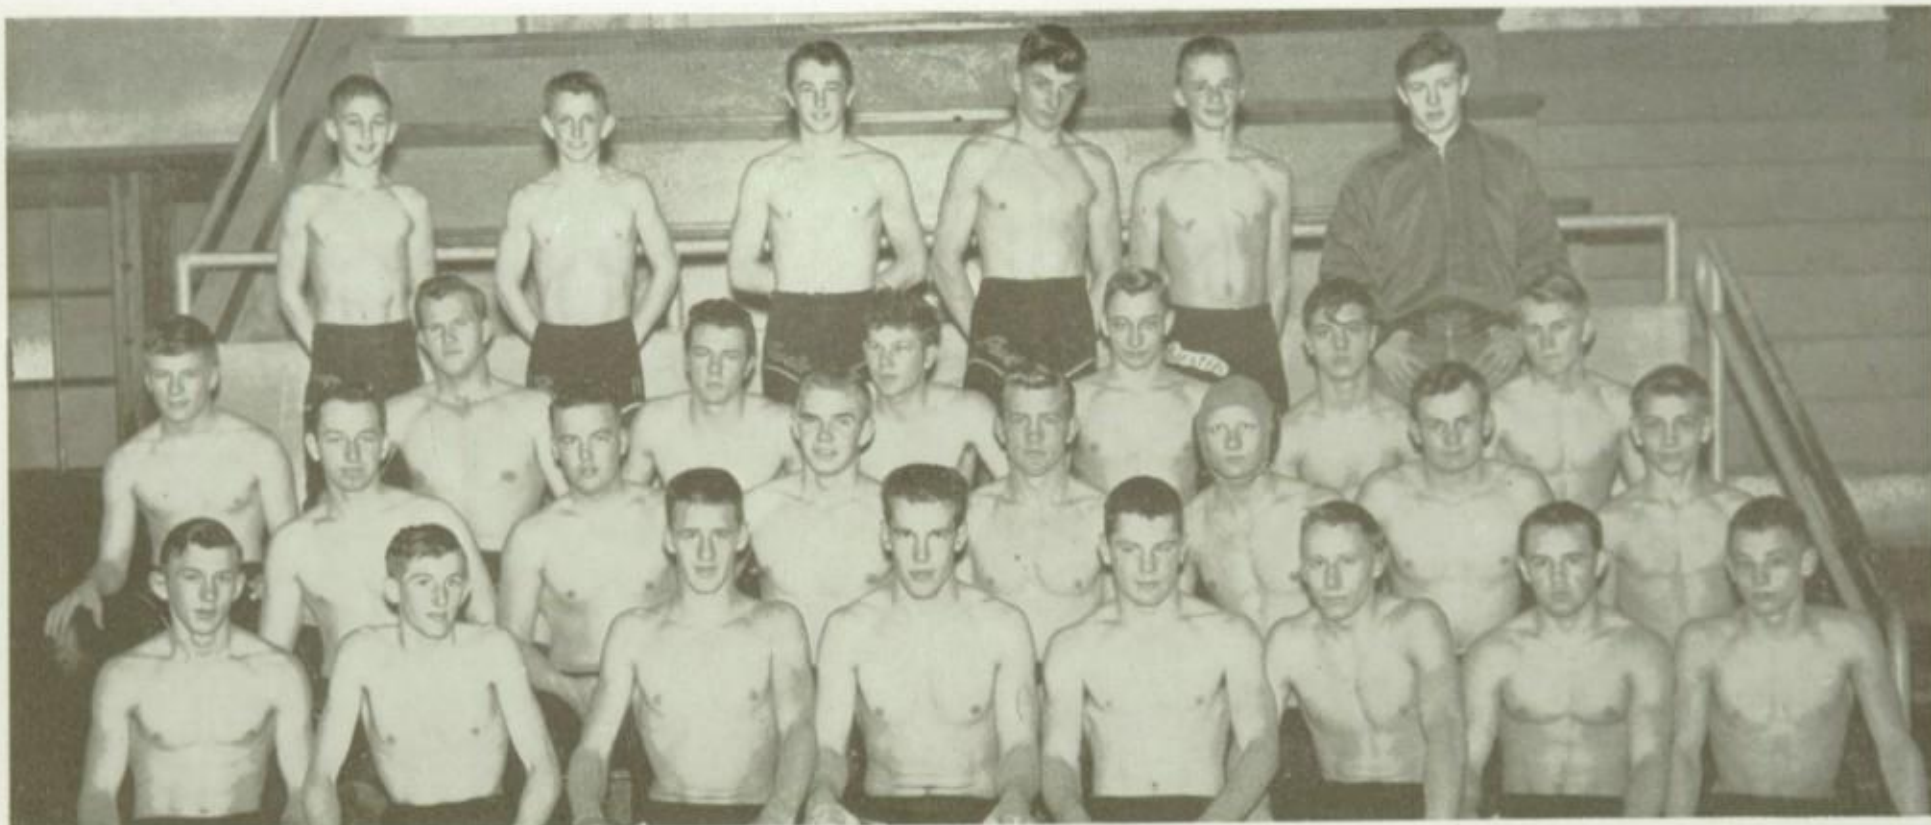

Barring more of Minnesota's weather tricks, in which it rains, snows, sleet, and hails all at once, this year's squad will be outside at an early date. Otherwise, it will go round and round the gym, hoping to be able to get outside soon.

Although last season included only meets with more than two teams, the cindermen came through with a good showing. Feature of the year was the placing of Gene Lohman and Knowles Dougherty in the State Meet. They advanced to the State by taking wins in the Regional in the low hurdles and mile, respectively.

Three grapplers place in state

A few fading grunts and groans marked the close of another successful grappling season. Cory Shoemaker, in the 103-pound division, Rodney Ellis, 145-pounder, and 165-pounder Don Barnett had just climaxed top-notch performances by reaching the state meet. It was Ellis who gained the finals, while Shoemaker dropped a close decision to the state champ in his first match. Barnett also fell victim in the first round.

Wrestlers build for future meets

Wrestling competition was unusually strong in the Big Nine this year, as a good Austin squad was unable to better a three won, five lost record. The Packer team also dropped a close decision to Anoka.

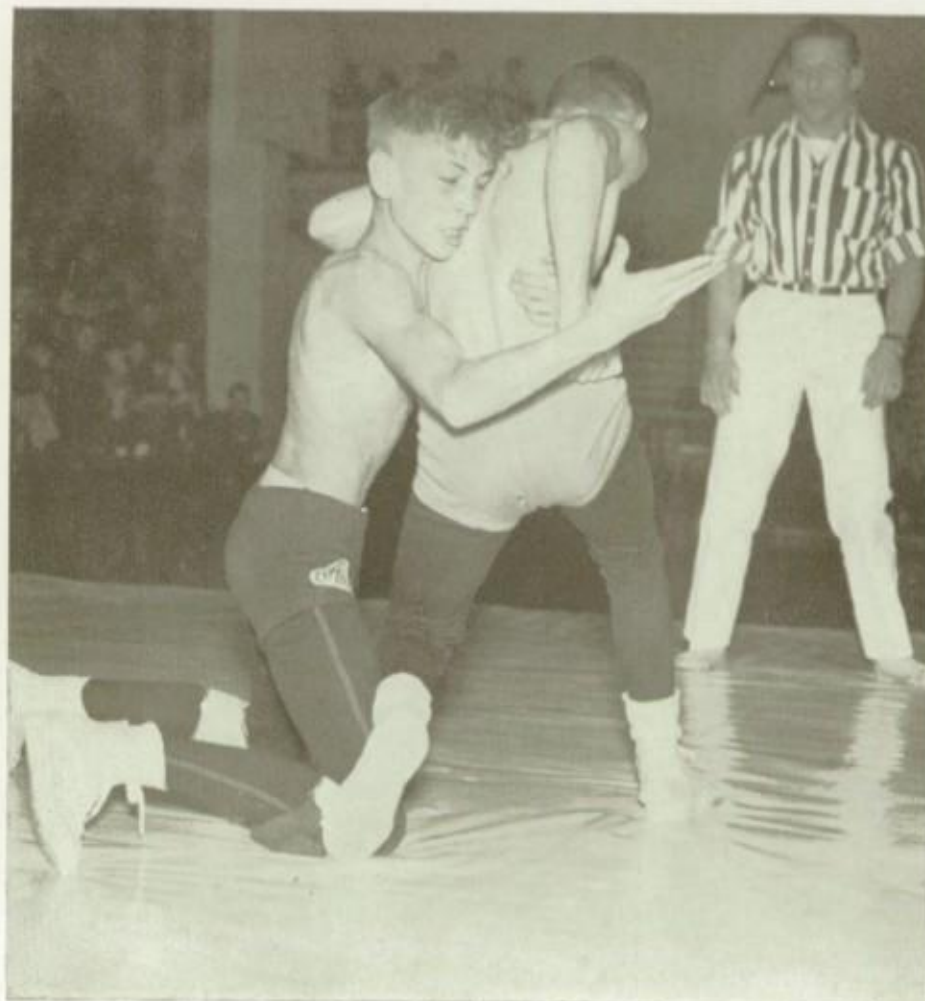

Wrestling letter winners who showed the greatest improvement were Rodney Ellis, Jim Grothe, Don Barnett, and Cory Shoemaker. Besides Grothe and Ellis, Erling Burns and Russell Wambeam graduate. Bob Hoff, Bob Husemoller, Jerry Meyer, Dale Neitzel, Roswell Ulland, and Bob Rugg will join Barnett and Shoemaker as returning lettermen.

Tankers rate fourth in state competition

Although Dave Nelson was nosed out by a hair in the individual medley, he garnered 7 points to lead Austin to fourth place in the state tank meet. Ron Holt, Dick Thatcher, and the 200-yard freestyle relay team picked up points to help the cause.

Swim squad concludes successful pool season

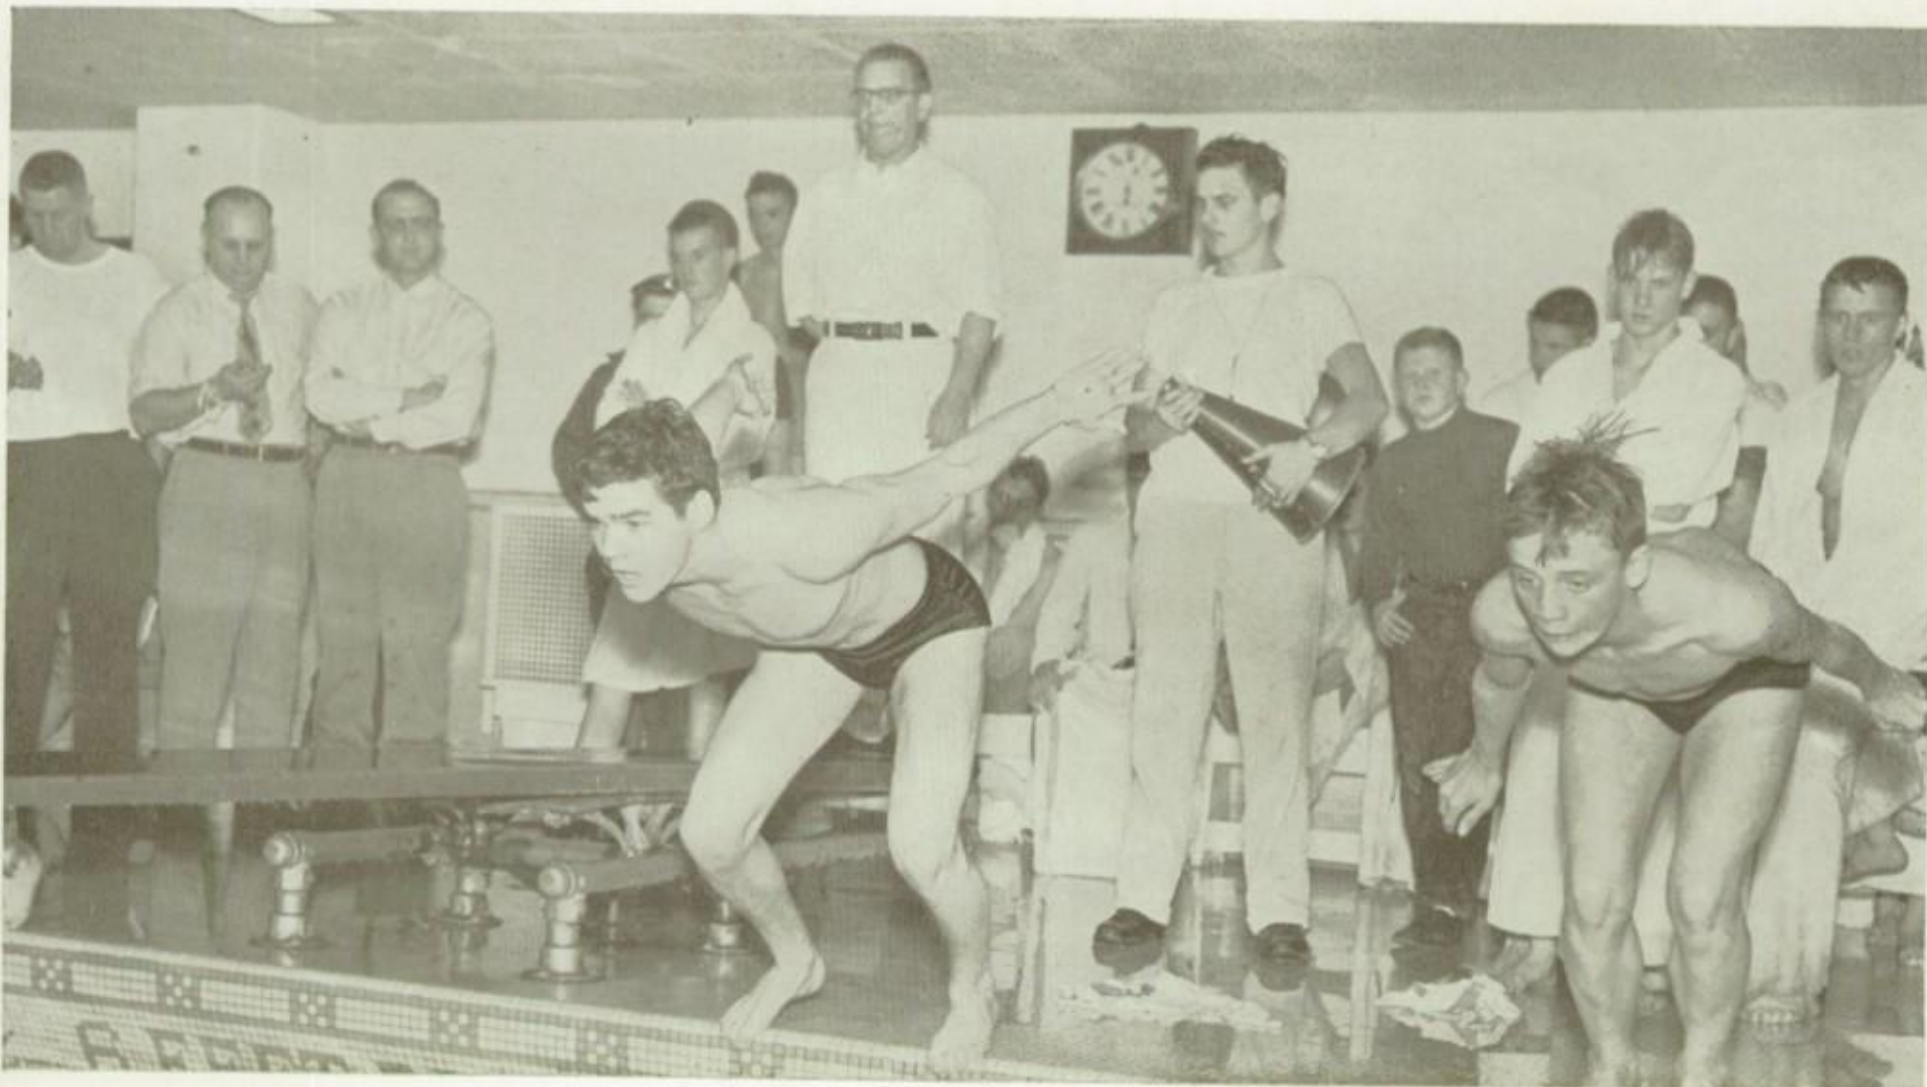

Only two defeats marred the record of this year's Packer tank squad, both of them by Rochester's state champions. Otherwise it was a clean slate, as Dave Nelson led the team to six triumphs. He broke Austin's pool record twice, setting the 200-yard individual medley record at 1:50.6.

Besides Nelson, graduating point-getters are Forrest Gardner, LaRue Johnson, Eugene Bootenhoff, and Duane Thorson. Maloney, Holt, Albright, Thatcher, Shankland, Plath and Guintire also won letters.

Girls will be boys-- Austin GAA slogan

"Girls will be boys" is clearly emphasized by Austin High School's Girls' Athletic Association. Volleyball, swimming, basketball, kittenball, and tennis are but a few of the sports in which these enthusiastic members of the fairer sex engage.

Advisers Miss Dorothy Hoos of the senior high and Miss Velma Bro of the junior high try to keep the rivalry friendly. At times they even engage in the games themselves.

Members of the senior club also take on the extra duty of arranging the details for the homecoming celebration. Many problems must be solved, but everything always turns out all right under these capable directors.

“... and remember, Pignewton, those immortal words of Hamlet: ‘there is a divinity that shapes our ends’...”

Just the heart of the ham Hormel takes a choice whole ham—skins it, takes out the bone, trims it carefully of all surplus fat. Then removes the shank in such a way that you get magnificent, tender whole slices from first to last. America's original ...and finest...canned ham. Geo. A. Hormel & Co., Austin, Minn.

Dear Ralph,
 When upon this page you look, think of me and close the book.
 Keep playing basketball and maybe someday you'll be a great big star! (Li is correct!) Remember the fun we had in Espanola. I hope we have alot next year tambien. Take it easy on Pat Henry this summer and on all the muchachos too. My parents want to see you soon. I hope you can read this better than you could my Spanish papers. I hope I see alot of you this summer. Best of luck.
